

Breakout Sessions Colorado Bicycle Summit

Breakout Session #1A: Bike share--Taking advantage of a quickly rising tide

Exciting options continue evolving in community bike share, and as market demand throughout Colorado continues to grow, Zagster and other vendors are providing more flexible service options. Are you ready to know more and possibly kick-start a Zagster system in your community or just want to know more about what it is? Come join us to learn more.

Moderator: Ted Heyd, Policy Director, Bicycle Colorado

Panelists: Jessica Juriga, Project Manager, Toole Design Group
Brian Patnode, Sales Consultant, Zagster
Hans Reichgelt, Open Space Specialist - Trails, City of Westminster

Breakout Session #1B: A funding fight in Denver: The Denver Streets Partnership story

How a unified advocacy effort helped spur Denver's commitment to increase funding for bike lanes and sidewalks.

Moderator: James Waddell, Executive Director, BikeDenver

Panelists: Crissy Fanganello, Director of Transportation, Denver Public Works
Piep van Heuven, Denver Director, Bicycle Colorado
Albus Brooks, President Denver City Council, City and County of Denver

Breakout Session #1C: Predicting the future: Using data today for a bike-friendly tomorrow

Planning for active transportation is a tricky calculus, especially when the gap between planning and completion is years. Learn three different techniques Colorado is using to accommodate and encourage the future growth of ridership across the state.

Moderator: Rachel Hultin, Active Transportation Manager, Bicycle Colorado

Panelists: Erik Sabina, Information Management Branch Manager, CDOT

Jason Longsdorf, Senior Transportation Planner, HDR
Andy Duvall, Sustainable Transportation Coordinator, National Renewable Energy Laboratory

Breakout Session #2A: Whoops! A bike lane's demise way before its time

Who knew bike lanes could be so controversial? The bumpy truth is that sometimes bike lanes can stir the ire of folks, and that's putting it nicely. This session will explore how to realize the good, avoid the bad and laugh at the ugly before, during and after bike lane installation.

Moderator: Ted Heyd, Policy Director, Bicycle Colorado
Panelists: Allen Beauchamp, Education and Encouragement Chair, Bike Colorado Springs
Kate Brady, Senior Bicycle Planner, City of Colorado Springs
Piep van Heuven, Denver Director, Bicycle Colorado
Dan Raine, Senior City Planner, Denver Public Works

Breakout Session #2B: Improving safety through technology: RoadX Challenge

Did you know Colorado is a global leader in harnessing technology to improve safety for bicyclists? In 2017, CDOT's RoadX program awarded prize money to eight innovative ideas from over 300 entries across the globe including three that will be piloted in Colorado this year. Learn more about these innovative bicycle safety solutions!

Moderator: Peter Kozinski, Director of RoadX Program, CDOT
Panelists: Gil McCormick, Trails Team Lead, COMBA
Tim Reinen, Executive Director, RADIANT Inc.

Breakout Session #2C: Lessons from Limon: From charette to bike lanes in 11 weeks

Learn how the small eastern plains town of Limon convened design, agency and funding leaders from across the state and nation to work with the community on a big plan to improve trails and wayfinding. Hear how 11 weeks later, the first quick-win bike lanes were striped in time for Bike to School Day and what's next for Limon.

Moderator: Rachel Hultin, Active Transportation Manager, Bicycle Colorado
Panelists: Dave Stone, Town Manager, Town of Limon
Linda Hoover, Board of Trustees/Community Champion, Town of Limon
Robert Seel, SE Region Trails Coordinator, Department of Parks & Wildlife